

dbh Logistics IT AG and Fiton B.V. start a strategic partnership: Focus on Internationalization

Bremen, March 2010

The requirements for providers of transport and logistics services grow, especially in terms of shorter delivery times, lower prices and better services. In order to offer competent and reliable Europe-wide customs and export solutions, dbh gets support of leading software providers for port communications and customs clearance – for all major countries in Europe.

"We use international contacts to create new opportunities for simple and harmonized customs procedures. Our goal is to build up a Europe-wide network," said Ines Laasch, Business Development Manager at dbh Logistics IT AG.

With Fiton B.V., dbh has found a reliable and flexible partner for electronic customs clearance in the Netherlands. Leading in software development for customs management solutions and solutions for warehouse management, forwarding and trading, Fiton supports dbh in the implementation of an AES / NCTS - customs solution as a black-box.

The strategic partnership of Fiton and dbh aim at the close link-up of the two solutions Fit on Customs and Advantage Customs, which allows integrated handling of customs procedures using only one user interface. The customers of dbh and Fiton can use both customs solutions and benefit from a wide range of solutions and services, such as software development, training, consulting and SaaS / hosting services.

At the same time, Fiton and dbh profit from the extensive local customs know-how of the relative partner. In this connection synergies and improvement of national software solutions for international strategic purposes are an important point. Customer's benefits lie quite clearly in an efficient, safe and fast handling of their customs declarations.

With Advantages Customs dbh offers an approved central platform for Europe-wide customs clearance, in which the current IT-based customs procedures can be supervised in a clear, reliable and safe manner. Essential features of this solution are plausibility checks before sending out customs clearances, connectivity to all existing IT systems within the company as well as a significant time and cost improvement.

Both companies - Fiton and dbh - complement each other very well in the field of customs clearance and thus enable a comprehensive and uniform transport handling. All solutions as well as the cooperation are enhanced by the more than 35 years of experience in logistics, shipping and IT business of dbh.
